Preface

Nari Gaurav Niti- Gujarat State Policy for Gender Equity was formally adopted by the Government on 26th of August'2006. The Niti is a very comprehensive document, which looks into various spheres of a women's life and aims to deal with them for holistic development and empowerment of women. The Niti has mentioned time bound action plans for each sector while also allocating responsibilities to all state departments. Each department is required to further develop detailed action plans for the outputs to be delivered by them.

Gender Resource Centre (GRC) along with Department of Women and Child Development (DWCD), has been liasioning with all state departments on implementation and monitoring of the Nari Gaurav Niti. After completion of six months of implementation of the policy, a format was circulated to all departments for compilation of the report. In the process it was felt that many departments required more technical support to develop individual action plans. There were also suggestions from various departments (and nodal officers for GEP) that GRC supports them to further deliberate on the action plans and formulation of tasks and monitoring indicators.

GRC has been in touch with many civil society organizations and experts on the issue to develop a list of suggestive tasks under each action plan. However, since it's already a year of formulation of the policy, we need to also monitor the progress made therein by the departments. GRC has thus tried to develop a checklist for monitoring/reporting indicators for each action point. This is just a suggestive list and one may not be limited by this for reporting. Nevertheless it should help the departments articulate the actions taken by them and report accordingly.

We hope you find it useful.
